Ear washing is one of the most commonly performed procedures in the primary care office. This method of irrigation is much cleaner and safer than other irrigation methods currently on the market. Since it is easy to use with built-in safety and simplicity, it is able to be used by any health-care worker within your facility.

- Simplicity of operation-quick and easy set up.
- Pressure regulation-regulates the output pressure to prevent damage to the tympanic membrane or ossicular chain.
- Temperature indicator/control-light will turn green when the water is at body temperature, and will automatically off if the water gets too hot.
